Leviticus 1

Ere entering upon the details of the chapter before us, there are two things which demand our careful consideration; namely:

- first, the Lord's position; and,
- secondly, the order in which the offerings are presented.

"And the Lord called unto Moses, and spake unto him out of the tabernacle of the congregation."

Such was the position from which the Lord made the communications contained in this Book, He had been speaking from Mount Sinai, and his position, there, gave marked character to the communication. From the fiery mount "went a fiery law;" but, here, He speaks "out of the tabernacle of the congregation."

This was an entirely different position. We have seen this tabernacle set up, at the close of the preceding book. "And he reared up the court round about the tabernacle and the altar, and set up the hanging of the court gate. So Moses finished the work. Then a cloud covered the tent of the congregation, and the glory of the Lord filled the tabernacle . . . For the glory of the Lord was upon the tabernacle, by day, and fire was on it, by night, in the sight of all the House of Israel, throughout all their journeys" (Exodus 40:33-38).

Now, the tabernacle was GOD's dwelling place, in grace.

He could take up His, abode there, because He was surrounded, on all sides, by that which vividly set forth the ground of His relationship with the people. Had He come into their midst, in the full display of the character revealed upon Mount Sinai, it could only have been to "consume them in a moment," as a "Stiff-necked people." But He retired within the veil - type of CHRIST's flesh (Hebrews 10:20) - and took His place on the mercy seat where the blood of atonement, and not the "stiff-neckedness" of Israel, was that which met His view, and satisfied the claims of His nature.

The blood which was brought into the sanctuary, by the high priest, was the type of that precious Blood which cleanses from all sin; and, although Israel, after the flesh, saw nothing of this, it, nevertheless, justified GOD in abiding amongst them - it "sanctified to the purifying of the flesh" (Hebrews 9:13).

Thus much as to the Lord's position in this Book, which must be taken into account, in order to a proper understanding of the communications made therein. In them we shall find inflexible holiness united with the purest grace. GOD is holy, no matter from whence He speaks. He was holy on Mount Sinai, and holy above the mercy-seat; but, in the former case, His holiness stood connected with "a devouring fire;" in the latter, it was connected with patient grace.

Now, the connection of perfect holiness with perfect grace is that which characterizes the redemption which is in CHRIST JESUS, which redemption is, in various ways, shadowed forth in the Book of Leviticus.

GOD must be holy, even though it should be in the eternal condemnation of impenitent sinners; but the full display of His holiness, in the salvation of sinners, calls forth Heaven's loudest and loftiest note of praise. "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, Good-will toward men" (Luke 2:14). This doxology could not have been sung in connection with "the fiery law." No doubt, there was "glory to God in the highest," but there was no "Peace on earth" nor "good will in men," inasmuch as it was the declaration of what men ought to be, ere GOD could take pleasure in them. But when "the Son" took His place, as a man, on the earth, the mind of Heaven could express its entire delight in Him as the One whose Person and work could combine, in the most perfect manner, divine glory with human blessedness.

And, now, one word, as to the order of the offerings, in the opening chapters of the Book of Leviticus.

The Lord begins with the burnt offering, and ends with the trespass offering. That is to say, He leaves off where we begin. This order is marked and most instructive. When, first, the arrow of conviction enters the soul, there are deep searchings of conscience, in reference to sins actually committed. Memory casts back its enlightened eye over the page of one's past life, and sees it stained with numberless trespasses against GOD and man. At this point of the soul's history, it is not so occupied with the question of the root from whence those trespasses have sprung, as with the stern and palpable fact that such and such things have actually been committed; and, hence, it needs to know that GOD has provided a sacrifice through which "all trespasses" can be frankly forgiven. This is presented to us in the trespass offering.

But, as one advances, in the divine life, he becomes conscious that those sins which he has committed are but branches from a root, streams from a fountain; and, moreover, that sin in his nature is that fountain - that root. This leads to far deeper exercise, which can only be met by a deeper insight into the work of the Cross.

In a word, the Cross will need to be apprehended by that in which GOD Himself has "condemned sin in the flesh" (Romans 8:3). My reader will observe, it does not say, "sins in the flesh," but the root from whence these have sprung, namely, "sin in the flesh." this is a truth of immense importance. CHRIST not merely "died for our sins, according to the scriptures," but He was "made sin for us" (II Corinthians 5:21). This is the doctrine of the sin offering.

Now, it is when the heart and conscience are set at rest, through the knowledge of CHRIST's work, that we can feed upon Himself as the ground of our peace and joy, in the presence of GOD.

There can be no such thing known as peace or joy, until we see all our trespasses forgiven and our sin judged. The trespass offering and the sin offering must be known, ere the Peace offering, joy offering, or thanksgiving offering can be appreciated. Hence, therefore, the order in which the peace offering stands, corresponds with the order of our spiritual apprehension of CHRIST.

The same perfect order is observable in reference to the meat offering. When the soul is led to taste the sweetness of spiritual communion with CHRIST - to feed upon Him, in peace and thankfulness, in the divine presence, it is drawn out in earnest desire to know more of the wondrous mysteries of His Person; and this desire is most blessedly met in the meat offering, which is the type of CHRIST's perfect manhood.

Then, in the burnt offering, we are conducted to a point beyond which it is impossible to go, and that is, the work of the Cross, as accomplished under the immediate eye of GOD, and as the expression of the unswerving devotion of the heart of CHRIST. All these things will come before us, in beauteous detail, as we pass along; we are here only looking at the order of the offerings, which is truly marvellous, whichever way we travel, whether outward from GOD to us, or inward from us to GOD.

In either case, we begin with the Cross and end with the Cross.

If we begin with the burnt offering, we see CHRIST, on the Cross, doing the will of GOD - making atonement, according to the measure of His perfect surrender of Himself to GOD. If we begin with the trespass offering, we see CHRIST, on the Cross, bearing our sins, and putting them away, according to the perfection of His atoning sacrifice; while, in each and all, we Behold the excellency, the beauty, and the perfection of His divine and adorable Person.

Surely, all this is sufficient to awaken in our hearts the deepest interest in the study of those precious types which we shall now proceed to consider in detail.

And may GOD the Holy Ghost, who penned the Book of Leviticus, expound its contents in living power to our hearts; that so, when we have reached the close, we may have abundant cause to bless His name for many thrilling and soul-stirring views of the Person and work of our blessed Lord and Saviour JESUS CHRIST, to whom be glory, now, henceforth, and for evermore. Amen.

In the burnt offering, with which our book opens, we have a type of CHRIST "offering himself without spot to God." Hence the position which the Holy Ghost assigns to it. If the Lord JESUS CHRIST came forth to accomplish the glorious work of atonement, His highest and most fondly-cherished object, in so doing, was the glory of GOD. "Lo, I come, to do thy will, O God," was the grand motto in every scene and circumstance of His life, and in none more markedly than in the work of the Cross.

Let the will of GOD be what it might, He came to do it. Blessed be GOD, we know what our portion is in the accomplishment of this "Will" for by it "we are sanctified, through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once" (Hebrews 10:10). Still, the primary aspect of CHRIST's work was to God-ward. It was an ineffable delight to Him to accomplish the will of GOD on this earth. No one had ever done this before. Some had, through grace, done "that which was right in the sight of the Lord;" but no one had ever, perfectly, invariably, from first to last, without hesitation, and without divergence, done the will of GOD. But this was, exactly, what the Lord JESUS did. He was "obedient unto death, even the death of the Cross" (Philippians 2:8).

"He steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem." And as He walked from the garden of Gethsemane to the Cross of Calvary, the intense devotion of His heart told itself forth in these accents: "The cup which my Father hath given me, shall I not drink it?"

Now, in all this self-emptied devotedness to GOD, there was truly a sweet savour. A perfect Man on the earth accomplishing the will of GOD, even in death, was an object of amazing interest to the mind of Heaven. Who could fathom the profound depths of that devoted heart, which displayed itself, under the eye of GOD, on the Cross? Surely, none but GOD; for in this, as in everything else, it holds good that "no man knoweth the Son, but the Father;" and no one can know ought about Him, save as the Father reveals Him.

The mind of man can, in some measure, grasp any subject of knowledge "under the sun." Human science can be laid hold of by the human intellect; but no man knoweth the Son, save as the Father reveals Him, by the power of the Holy Ghost, through the written word.

The Holy Ghost delights to reveal the Son - to take of the things of JESUS, and show them unto us. These things we have, in all their fullness and beauty, in the word. There can be no new revelation, inasmuch as the Spirit brought "all things" to the apostles' memory, and led them into "all truth." There can be nothing beyond "all truth;" and, hence, all pretension to a new revelation, and the development of new truth, - meaning thereby truth not contained in the sacred canon of inspiration - is an effort, on man's part, to add to what GOD calls "all truth."

No doubt, the Spirit may unfold and apply, with new and extraordinary power, truth contained in the word; but this is, obviously, a very different thing from our travelling outside the range of divine revelation, for the purpose of finding principles, ideas, or dogmas, which shall command the conscience. This latter can only be regarded in the light of impious presumption.

In the Gospel narrative, we have CHRIST presented to us in the varied phases of His character, His Person, and His work.

To those precious documents the people of GOD in all ages have rejoiced to betake themselves, and drink in their heavenly revelations of the object of their love and confidence - the One to whom they owed everything, for time and eternity. But very few, comparatively, have ever been led to regard the rites and ceremonies of the Levitical economy as fraught with the most minute instruction in reference to the same commanding theme.

The offerings of Leviticus, for example, have been too much regarded as so many antiquated records of Jewish customs, conveying no intelligible voice to our ears - no spiritual light to our understandings. However, it must be admitted that the apparently abstruse records of Leviticus, as well as the sublime strains of Isaiah. take their place amongst the "things which were written aforetime," and they are, therefore, "for Our learning."

True, we shall need to study those records, as indeed all Scripture, with an humble, self-emptied spirit; with reverent dependence upon the teaching of Him who graciously penned them for us; with sedulous attention to the general scope, bearing, and analogy of the entire body of divine revelation; with an effectual curb on the imagination, that it may not take unhallowed flights; but if thus, through grace, we enter upon the study of the types of Leviticus, we shall find in them a vein of the richest and finest ore.

We shall now proceed to examine the burnt offering, which, as we have remarked, presents CHRIST, offering Himself, without spot, to GOD.

"If His offering be a burnt sacrifice of the herd, let him offer a male, without blemish."

The essential glory and dignity of CHRIST's Person forms the basis of Christianity. He imparts that dignity and glory to every thing He does, and to every office He sustains, no office could possibly add glory to Him who is "God over all, blessed for ever" - "God manifest in the flesh" - the glorious "Immanuel" - "God with us" - the eternal Word - the Creator and Sustainer of the universe. What office could add to the dignity of such an One?

In point of fact, we know that all His offices are connected with His humanity; and in assuming that humanity, He stooped from the glory which He had with the Father, before the world was. He thus stooped, in order to glorify GOD perfectly, in the very midst of a scene where all was hostile to Him. He came to be "eaten up" by a holy, unquenchable zeal for the glory of GOD, and the effectual carrying out of His eternal counsels.

The unblemished male, of the first year, was a type of the Lord JESUS CHRIST offering Himself for the perfect accomplishment of the will of GOD.

There should be nothing expressive either of weakness or imperfection.

"A male of the first year" was required. We shall see, when we come to examine the other offerings, that "a female" was, in some cases, permitted; but that was only expressive of the imperfection which attached to the worshipper's apprehension, and in nowise of any defect in the offering, inasmuch as it was "unblemished" in the one case, as well as in the other. Here, however, it was an offering of the very highest order, because it was CHRIST offering Himself to GOD.

CHRIST, in the burnt offering, was exclusively for the eye and heart of GOD. This point should be distinctly apprehended. GOD alone could duly estimate the Person and work of CHRIST. He alone could fully appreciate the Cross as the expression of CHRIST's perfect devotedness. The Cross, as foreshadowed by the burnt offering, had an element in it which only the divine mind could apprehend. It had depths so profound that neither mortal nor angel could fathom them. There was a voice in it which was intended exclusively for, and went directly to, the ear of the Father. There were communications between the Cross of Calvary and the throne of GOD, which lay far beyond the highest range of created intelligence.

"He shall offer it of his own voluntary will at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the Lord."

The use of the word "voluntary," here, brings out, with great clearness, the grand idea in the burnt offerings.

It leads us to contemplate the Cross in an aspect which is not sufficiently apprehended. We are too apt to look upon the Cross merely as the place where the great question of sin was gone into and settled, between eternal Justice and the spotless victim - as the place where our guilt was atoned for, and where Satan was gloriously vanquished. Eternal and universal praise to redeeming love! The Cross was all this. But it was more than this. It was the place where CHRIST's love to the Father was told out in language which only the Father could hear and understand. It is in the latter aspect that we have it typified, in the burnt offering; and, therefore, it is that the word "voluntary" occurs.

Were it merely a question of the imputation of sin, and of enduring the wrath of GOD on account of sin, such an expression would not be in moral order. The blessed Lord JESUS could not, with strict propriety, be represented as willing to be "made sin" - willing to endure the wrath of GOD, and the hiding of His countenance; And, in this one fact, we learn, in the clearest manner, that the burnt offering does not foreshadow CHRIST, on the Cross, bearing sin but CHRIST on the Cross, accomplishing the will of GOD.

That CHRIST Himself contemplated the Cross in these two aspects of it, is evident from His own words. When he looked at the Cross as the place of sin-bearing - when He anticipated the horrors with which, in this point of view, it stood invested, He exclaimed, "Father, if thou be willing, remove this cup from me" (Luke 23:42). He shrank from that which His work, as a sin-bearer, involved. His pure and holy mind shrank from the thought of contact with sin; and His loving heart shrank from the thought of losing, for a moment, the light of GOD's countenance.

But, then, the Cross had another aspect. It stood before the eye of CHRIST as a scene, in which He could fully tell out all the deep secrets of His love to the Father - a place in which He could, "of his own voluntary will," take the cup which the Father had given Him, and drain it to the very dregs. True it is that the whole life of CHRIST emitted a fragrant odour, which ever ascended to the Father's throne - He did always those things which pleased the Father - He ever did the will of GOD; but the burnt offering does not typify Him in His life - precious, beyond all thought, as was every act of that life - but in His death, and in that, not as one "made a curse for us," but as one presenting to the heart of the Father an odour of incomparable fragrance.

This truth invests the Cross with peculiar charms for the spiritual mind.

It imparts to the sufferings of our blessed Lord an interest of the most intense character.

- the guilty sinner, no doubt, finds in the Cross a divine answer to the deepest and most earnest cravings of heart and conscience.
- the true believer finds in the Cross that which captivates every affection of his heart, and transfixes his whole moral being.
- the angels find in the Cross a theme for ceaseless admiration.

All this is true; but there is that, in the Cross, which passes far beyond the loftiest conceptions of saints or angels; namely, the deep-toned devotion of the heart of the Son presented to, and appreciated by, the heart of the Father. This is the elevated aspect of the Cross, which is so strikingly shadowed forth in the burnt offering.

And, here, let me remark that the distinctive beauty of the burnt offering must be entirely sacrificed, if we admit the idea that CHRIST was a sin-bearer all His life.

There would then be no force, no value, no meaning in the word "voluntary." There could be no room for voluntary action in the case of one who was compelled, by the very necessity of his position, to yield up his life. If CHRIST were a sin-bearer, in His life, then, assuredly, His death must have been a necessary, not a voluntary, act. Indeed, it may be safely asserted that there is not one of the offerings the beauty of which would not be marred, and its strict integrity sacrificed, by the theory of a Life of sin-bearing.

In the burnt offering, this is especially the case, inasmuch as it is not, in it, a question of sin-bearing, or enduring the wrath of GOD, but entirely one of voluntary devotedness, manifested in the death of the Cross.

In the burnt offering we recognize a type of GOD the Son, accomplishing, by GOD the Spirit, the will of GOD the Father. This He did "of His own voluntary will." "Therefore doth my Father love me, because I lay down my life, that I might take it again" (John 10:17).

Here we have the burnt offering aspect of the death of CHRIST. On the other hand, the prophet, contemplating Him as the sin offering, says, "his life is taken from the earth" (Acts 8:33, which is the LXX. version of Isaiah 53:8).

Again, CHRIST says, "No one (ou deis) taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself." Was He a sin-bearer when He said this? Observe, it is "no one" man, angel, devil, or else. It was His own voluntary act, to lay down His life that He might take it again. "I delight to do thy will, O my God." Such was the language of the divine burnt offering - of Him who found His unutterable joy in offering Himself without spot to GOD.

Now, it is of the last importance to apprehend, with distinctness, the primary object of the heart of CHRIST, in the work of redemption. It tends to consolidate the believer's peace. The accomplishment of GOD's will, the establishment of GOD's counsels, and the display of GOD's glory, occupied the fullest, deepest, and largest place in that devoted heart which viewed and estimated everything in reference to GOD.

The Lord JESUS never once stopped to inquire how any act or circumstance would affect Himself. "He humbled himself" - "He made himself of no reputation" - He surrendered all. And, hence, when He arrived at the close of His career, He could look back upon it all, and say, with His eyes lifted up to Heaven, "I have glorified thee on the earth; I have finished the work which thou gavest me to do" (John 17:4).

It is impossible to contemplate the work of CHRIST, in this aspect of it, without having the heart filled with the sweetest affections toward His Person.

It does not detract, in the smallest degree, from our sense of His love to us, to know that He made GOD His primary object, in the work of the Cross. Quite the opposite. His love to us, and our salvation in Him, could only be founded upon GOD's established glory. That glory must form the solid base of everything. "As truly as I live, All the earth shall be filled with the glory of the Lord" (Numbers 14:21). But we know that GOD's eternal glory, and the creature's eternal blessedness, are, in the divine counsels, inseparably linked together, so that if the former be secured, the latter must needs be so likewise.

"And he shall put his hand upon the head of the burnt offering; and it shall be accepted for him, to make atonement for him."

The act of laying on of hands was expressive of full identification. By that significant act, the offerer and the offering became one; and this oneness, in the case of the burnt offering, secured for the offerer all the acceptableness of his offering.

The application of this to CHRIST and the believer sets forth a truth of the most precious nature, and one largely developed in the New Testament; namely, the believer's everlasting identification with, and acceptance in, CHRIST. "As he is, so are we, in this world." "We are in him that is true" (I John 4:17; I John 5:20).

Nothing, in any measure, short of this could avail. The man who is not in CHRIST is in his sins. There is no middle ground. You must be either in CHRIST or out of Him. There is no such thing as being partly in CHRIST. If there is a single hair's-breadth between you and CHRIST, you are in an actual state of wrath and condemnation. but, on the other hand, if you are in Him, then are you "as he is" before GOD, and so accounted in the presence of infinite holiness.

Such is the plain teaching of the Word of GOD:

- "Ye are complete in him" (I Corinthians 6:17).
- "accepted in the beloved" (Ephesians 1:6).
- "members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones" (Ephesians 5:30).

- "He that is joined to the Lord, is one Spirit" (Colossians 2:1).

Now, it is not possible that the Head can be in one degree of acceptance and the members in another. No; the Head and the members are one. GOD counts them one; and, therefore, they are one. This truth is, at once, the ground of the loftiest confidence, and of the most profound humility. It imparts the fullest assurance of "boldness in the day of judgment," inasmuch as it is not possible that ought can be laid to the charge of Him with whom we are united. It imparts the deep sense of our own nothingness, inasmuch as our union with CHRIST is founded upon the death of nature and the utter abolition of all its claims and pretensions.

Since, therefore, the Head and the members are viewed in the same position of infinite favour and acceptance, before GOD, it is perfectly evident that all the members stand in one acceptance, in one salvation, in one life, in one righteousness.

There are no degrees in justification. The babe in CHRIST stands in the same justification as the saint of fifty years' experience. The one is in CHRIST, and so is the other; and this, as it is the only ground of life, so it is the only ground of justification. There are not two kinds of life, neither are there two kinds of justification. No doubt, there are various measures of enjoyment of this justification - various degrees in the knowledge of its fullness and extent - various degrees in the ability to exhibit its power upon the heart and life; and these things are frequently confounded with the justification itself, which, as being divine, is, necessarily, eternal, absolute, unvarying, entirely unaffected by the fluctuation of human feeling and experience.

But, further, there is no such thing as progress in justification.

The believer is not more justified today? than he was yesterday; nor will he be more justified tomorrow than he is today; yea, a soul who is "in Christ Jesus" is as completely justified as if he were before the throne.

- he is "complete in Christ."

- he is "as" CHRIST.

- he is, on CHRIST's own authority, "clean every whit" (John 13:10).

What more could he be, at this side of the glory? He may, and - if he walks in the Spirit - will, make progress in the sense and enjoyment of this glorious reality; but, as to the thing itself, the moment he, by the power of the Holy Ghost, believed the Gospel, he passed from a positive state of unrighteousness and condemnation into a positive state of righteousness and acceptance.

All this is based upon the divine perfectness of CHRIST's work; just as, in the case of the burnt offering, the worshipper's acceptance was based upon the acceptableness of his offering. It was not a question of what he was, but simply of what the sacrifice was. "It shall be accepted for him, to make atonement for him."

"And he shall kill the bullock before the Lord: and the priests, Aaron's sons, shall bring the blood, and sprinkle the blood round about upon the altar that is by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation."

It is most needful, in studying the doctrine of the burnt offering, to bear in mind that the grand point set forth therein is not the meeting of the sinner's need, but the presentation to GOD of that which was infinitely acceptable to Him. CHRIST, as foreshadowed by the burnt offering, is not for the sinner's conscience, but for the heart of GOD.

Further, the Cross, in the burnt offering, is not the exhibition of the exceeding hatefulnes of sin, but of CHRIST's unshaken and unshakable devotedness to the Father. Neither is it the scene of GOD's out-poured wrath on CHRIST the sin-bearer; but of the Father's unmingled complacency in CHRIST, the voluntary and most fragrant sacrifice.

Finally, "atonement," as seen in the burnt offering, is not merely commensurate with the claims of man's conscience, but with the intense desire of the heart of CHRIST, to carry out the will and establish the counsels of GOD - a desire which stopped not short of surrendering up His spotless, precious life, as "a voluntary offering" of "sweet savour" to GOD.

From the carrying out of this desire, no power of earth or hell, men or devils, could shake Him.

When Peter ignorantly sought to dissuade Him, in words of false tenderness, from encountering the shame and degradation of the Cross - "Be it far from thee, Lord: this shall not be unto thee" - what was the reply? "Get thee behind me, Satan; thou art an offence unto me; for thou savourest not the things that be of God, but those that be of men" (Matthew 16:22, 23).

So also, on another occasion, He says to His disciples, "Hereafter, I will not talk much with you, for the prince of this world cometh, and hath nothing in me: but that the world may know that I love the Father, and as the Father hath given me commandment, even so I do" (John 14:30).

These and numerous other kindred scriptures, bring out the burnt offering phase of CHRIST's work, in which, it is evident, the primary thought is His "Offering himself without spot to God."

In full keeping with all that has been stated, in reference to the special point in the burnt offering, is the place which Aaron's sons get, and the functions assigned them therein.

- they "sprinkle the blood"
- they "put the fire upon the altar"
- they "lay the wood in order upon the fire"
- they "lay the parts, the head and the fat, in order upon the wood that is on the fire which is upon the altar."

These are very prominent actions, and they form a marked feature of the burnt offering, as contrasted with the sin offering, in which Aaron's sons are not mentioned at all.

"The sons of Aaron" represent the church, not as "one body," but as a priestly house. This is easily apprehended. If Aaron was a type of CHRIST, then Aaron's house was a type of CHRIST's house, as we read, in Hebrews 3, "But Christ as a Son over his own house, whose house are we." And, again, "Behold I and the children whom God hath given me."

Now, it is the privilege of the Church, as led and taught by the Holy Ghost, to gaze upon, and delight in, that aspect of CHRIST, which is presented in this opening type of Leviticus.

"Our fellowship is with the Father," who graciously calls us to participate, with Him, in His thoughts about CHRIST. True, we can never rise to the height of those thoughts; but we can have fellowship therein, by the Holy Ghost who dwells in us. It is not, here, a question of having the conscience tranquillized, by the Blood of CHRIST, as the sin-bearer, but of communion with GOD in the matter of CHRIST's perfect surrender of Himself on the Cross.

"The priests, Aaron's sons, shall bring the blood, and sprinkle the blood round about upon the altar that is by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation."

Here, we have a type of the Church, bringing the memorial of an accomplished sacrifice, and presenting it in the place of individual approach to GOD. But, we must remember, it is the blood of the burnt offering, and not of the sin offering. It is the Church, in the power of the Holy Ghost, entering into the stupendous thought of CHRIST's accomplished devotedness to GOD, and not a convicted sinner, entering into the value of the blood of the sin-bearer.

I need hardly say that the Church is composed of sinners, and convicted sinners, too; but "Aaron's sons" do not represent convicted sinners, but worshipping saints. It is as "priests" they have to do with the burnt offering. Many err as to this. They imagine that, because one takes the place of a worshipper - being invited by the grace of GOD, and fitted by the Blood of CHRIST, so to do - he, thereby, refuses to acknowledge himself a poor worthless sinner. This is a great mistake. The believer is, in himself, "nothing at all." But in CHRIST, he is a purged worshipper. He does not stand, in the sanctuary, as a guilty sinner, but as a worshipping priest, clothed in "garments of glory and beauty."

To be occupied with my guilt, in the presence of GOD, is not humility, as regards myself, but unbelief, as regards the sacrifice.

However, it must be very evident to my reader, that the idea of sin-bearing - the imputation of sin - the wrath of GOD, does not appear in the burnt offering. True, we read, "it shall be accepted for him, to make atonement for him;" but, then, it is "atonement" not according to the depths and enormity of human guilt, but according to the perfection of CHRIST's surrender of Himself to GOD, and the intensity of GOD's delight in CHRIST. This gives us the very loftiest idea of atonement.

If I contemplate CHRIST as the sin offering, I see atonement made according to the claims of divine justice, with respect to sin. But when I see atonement, in the burnt offering, it is according to the measure of CHRIST's willingness and ability to accomplish the will of GOD; and according to the measure of GOD's complacency in CHRIST and His work. What a perfect atonement must that be which is the fruit of CHRIST's devotion to GOD! Could there be anything beyond this? Assuredly not. The burnt offering aspect of atonement is that about which the priestly household may well be occupied in the courts of the Lord's house, for ever.

"And he shall flay the burnt offering, and cut it into his pieces."

The ceremonial act of "flaying" was peculiarly expressive. It was simply the removing of the outward covering, in order that what was within might be fully revealed. It was not sufficient that the offering should be, outwardly, "without blemish," "the hidden parts" should be all disclosed, in order that every sinew and every joint might be seen. It was only in the case of the burnt offering that this action was specially named. This is quite in character, and tends to set forth the depth of CHRIST's devotedness to the Father. It was no mere surface-work with Him. The more the secrets of His inner life were disclosed, the more the depths of His being were explored, the more clearly was it made manifest that pure devotion to the will of His Father, and earnest desire for His glory, were the springs of action in the great Antitype of the burnt offering. He was, most assuredly, a whole burnt offering.

"And cut it into his pieces."

This action presents a somewhat similar truth to that taught in the "sweet incense beaten small" (Leviticus 16). The Holy Ghost delights to dwell upon the sweetness and fragrance of the sacrifice of CHRIST, not only as a whole, but also in all its minute details.

- look at the burnt offering, as a whole, and you see it without blemish.
- look at it in all its parts, and you see it to be the same.

Such was CHRIST; and as such He is shadowed forth in this important type.

"And the sons of Aaron the priest shall put fire upon the altar, and lay the wood in order upon the fire. And the priests, Aaron's sons, shall lay the parts, the head and the fat, in order upon the wood that is on the fire which is upon the altar."

This was a high position for the priestly family. The burnt offering was wholly offered to GOD. It was all burnt upon the altar. *

* It may be well, at this point, to inform the reader that the Hebrew word which is rendered "burn," in the case of the burnt offering is wholly different from that which is used in the sin offering. I shall, because of the peculiar interest of the subject, refer to a few of the passages in which each word occurs. The word used in the burnt offering signifies "incense," or to "burn incense," and occurs in the following passages, in some one or other of its various inflections. Leviticus 6:15; "and all the frankincense, . . . and shall burn it upon the altar."

Deuteronomy 33:10; "they shall put incense before thee, and whole burnt sacrifice upon thine altar."

Exodus 30:1; "and thou shalt make an altar to burn incense upon."

Psalms 46:15; "with the incense of rams."

Jeremiah 44:21; "The incense that ye burned in the cities of Judah."

Song of Solomon 3:15; "Perfumed with Myrrh and frankincense."

Passages might be multiplied, but the above will suffice to show the use of the word which occurs in the burnt offering.

The Hebrew word which is rendered "burn," in connection with the sin offering, signifies to burn, in general, and occurs in the following passages.

Genesis 40: 3; "let us make brick, and burn them thoroughly."

Leviticus 10: 16; "And Moses diligently sought the goat of the sin offering and, behold, it was burnt."

II Chronicles 16: 14; "And they made a very great burning for him."

Thus, not only was the sin offering burnt in a different place, but a different word is adopted by the Holy Ghost to express the burning of it. Now, we cannot imagine, for a moment, that this distinction is a mere interchange of words, the use of which is indifferent. I believe the wisdom of the Holy Ghost is as manifest in the use of the two words, as it is in any other point of difference in the two offerings. The spiritual reader will attach the proper value to the above most interesting distinction.

Man did not partake of it; but the sons of Aaron the priest, themselves being likewise priests, are here seen standing round the altar of GOD, to behold the flame of an acceptable sacrifice ascending to Him - an odour of sweet smell. This was a high position - high communion - a high order of priestly service - a striking type of the Church having fellowship with GOD, in reference to the perfect accomplishment of His will in the death of CHRIST.

As convicted sinners, we gaze on the Cross of our Lord JESUS CHRIST, and behold therein that which meets all our need. The Cross, in this aspect of it, gives perfect peace to the conscience. But, then, as priests, as purged worshippers, as members of the priestly family, we can look at the Cross in another light, even as the grand consummation of CHRIST's holy purpose to carry out, even unto death, the will of the Father. As convicted sinners, we stand at the brazen altar, and find peace through the blood of atonement; but, as priests, we stand there, to behold and admire the completeness of that burnt offering - the perfect surrender and presentation of the spotless One to GOD.

We should have a very defective apprehension of the mystery of the Cross, were we only to see in it that which meets man's need as a sinner.

There were depths in that mystery, which only the mind of GOD could fathom. It is, therefore, important to see that when the Holy Ghost would furnish us with foreshadowings of the Cross, He gives us, in the very first place, one which sets it forth in its aspect to God-ward. This alone would be sufficient to teach us that there are heights and depths in the doctrine of the Cross which man never could reach. He may approach to "that one well-spring of delight," and drink for ever - he may satisfy the utmost longings of his spirit - he may explore it with all the powers of the renewed nature; but, after all, there is that in the Cross which only GOD could know and appreciate.

Hence it is that the burnt offering gets the first place.

It typifies CHRIST's death as viewed and valued by GOD alone, and surely, we may say, we could not have done without such a type as this, for, not only does it give us the highest possible aspect of the death of CHRIST, but it also gives us a most precious thought in reference to GOD's peculiar interest in that death. The very fact of His instituting a type of CHRIST's death, which was to be exclusively for Himself, contains a volume of instruction for the spiritual mind.

But though neither man nor angel can ever fully sound the amazing depths of the mystery of CHRIST's death, we can, at least, see some features of it which would needs make it precious, beyond all thought, to the heart of GOD. From the Cross, He reaps His richest harvest of glory. In no other way could He have been so glorified, as by the death of CHRIST.

In CHRIST's voluntary surrender of Himself to death, the divine glory shines out in its fullest brightness. In it, too, the solid foundation of all the divine counsels was laid. This is a most comforting truth. Creation never could have furnished such a basis. Moreover, the Cross furnishes a righteous channel through which divine love can flow. and, finally, by the Cross, Satan is eternally confounded, and "principalities and powers made a show of openly."

These are glorious fruits produced by the Cross; and, when we think of them, we can see just reason why there should have been a type of the Cross exclusively for GOD Himself, and also a reason why that type should occupy the leading place - should stand at the very top of the list. Again, let me say, there would have been a grievous blank among the types had the burnt offering been lacking; and there would be a grievous blank in the page of inspiration had the record of that type been withheld.

"But his inwards and his legs shall he wash in water: and the priest shall burn all on the altar, to be a burnt sacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the Lord."

This action rendered the sacrifice, typically, what CHRIST was essentially - pure, both inwardly and outwardly, pure.

There was the most perfect correspondence between CHRIST's inward motives and His outward conduct. The latter was the index of the former. All tended to the one point, namely, the glory of GOD. The members of His Body perfectly obeyed and carried out the counsels of His devoted heart - that heart which only beat for GOD, and for His glory, in the salvation of men. Well, therefore, might the priest "burn all on the altar." It was all typically pure, and all designed only as food for the altar of GOD.

Of some sacrifices the priest partook; of some, the offerer; but the burnt offering was "all" consumed on the altar. It was exclusively for GOD. The priests might arrange the wood and the fire, and see the flame ascend; and a high and holy privilege it was so to do. But they did not eat of the sacrifice. GOD alone was the object of CHRIST, in the burnt offering aspect of His death.

We cannot be too simple in our apprehension of this. From the moment that the unblemished male was voluntarily presented at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, until it was reduced to ashes, by the action of the fire, we discern in it CHRIST offering Himself, by the Eternal Spirit, without spot to GOD.

This makes the burnt offering unspeakably precious to the soul. It gives us the most exalted view of CHRIST's work. In that work GOD had His own peculiar joy - a joy into which no created intelligence could enter. This must never be lost sight of. It is unfolded in the burnt offering, and confirmed by "the law of the burnt offering," to which we shall just refer.

"And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Command Aaron and his sons, saying, this is the law of the burnt offering: it is the burnt offering, because of the burning upon the altar all night unto the morning, and the fire of the altar shall be burning in it. And the priest, shall put on his linen garment, and his linen breeches shall he put upon his flesh, and take up the ashes which the fire hath consumed with the burnt offering on the altar, and he shall put them beside the altar. And he shall put off his garments, and put on other garments, and carry forth the ashes without the camp unto a clean place. And the fire upon the altar shall be burning in it, it shall not be put out: and the priest shall burn wood on it every morning, and lay the burnt offering in order upon it, and he shall burn thereon the fat of the peace offering. The fire shall ever be burning upon the, altar: it shall never go out" (Leviticus 6:8-13).

The fire on the altar consumed the burnt offering, and the fat of the peace offering. It was the apt expression of divine holiness which found in CHRIST, and His perfect sacrifice, a proper material on which to feed. That fire was never to go out. There was to be the perpetual maintenance of that which set forth the action of divine holiness. Through the dark and silent watches of the night, the fire blazed on the altar of GOD.

"And the priest shall put on his linen garment," &c. Here, the priest takes, in type, the place of CHRIST, whose personal righteousness is set forth by the white linen garment. He, having given Himself up to the death of the Cross, in order to accomplish the will of GOD, has entered, in His own eternal righteousness, into Heaven, bearing with Him the memorials of His finished work. The ashes declared the completion of the sacrifice, and GOD's acceptance thereof. Those ashes, placed beside the altar, indicated that the fire had consumed the sacrifice - that it was not only a completed, but also an accepted, sacrifice. The ashes of the burnt offering declared the acceptance of the sacrifice. The ashes of the sin offering declared the judgment of the sin.

Many of the points on which we have been dwelling will, with the divine blessing, come before us with increasing clearness, fullness, precision, and power as we proceed with the offerings. Each offering is, as it were, thrown into relief, by being viewed in contrast with all the rest. All the offerings, taken together, give us a full view of CHRIST. They are like so many mirrors, arranged in such a manner, as to reflect, in various ways, the figure of that true and only perfect Sacrifice. No one type could fully present Him. We needed to have Him reflected in life and in death - as a Man and as a Victim - to God-ward and to us-ward; and we have Him thus, in the offerings of Leviticus. GOD has graciously met our need, and may He give us an enlarged capacity to enter into and enjoy His provision.
